Woodward Charitable Trust

The trust makes grants for core costs rather than specific projects as they recognise that smaller charities can find these hard to fund. They hope that this will have a more direct impact on the organisations that they choose to fund. Applicants should take the time to read their guidelines in order to avoid submitting applications that are likely to be rejected. The Trustees particularly look to fund projects that help families and young people and that are aiming to improve the life chances of the beneficiaries. They like projects that promote community cohesion and the development of skills that will change the outlook and outcomes for the users. Organisations that promote volunteering and involve both past and present users in their operations or management are encouraged. Trustees only consider applications for core costs and are looking for organisations which aim to achieve a positive impact in at least one of the areas of child / teenagerhood isolation, disadvantaged / impoverished families and/or prisoners / ex-offenders connections / rehabilitation. Trustees review applications twice a year, usually in March and October.
